The Wardrobe Archivist

Clothing and closets have always played a big part in my life. I spent years helping friends shop for the just-right dress for an event, figuring out "what goes with what" in their closets, and coaching them through clean-outs and purges. I've found a niche working with women who are trying to get to a different level with their wardrobe. I recognize that our clothing is so very personal, and so much deeper than choosing a garment to wear daily on our backs. As I transition to the next phase of my life, working with these smart and wonderful women has brought me true and deep satisfaction. As a Nyack native, I take pride in being a part of the diverse brick and mortar merchant community in addition to running Wardrobe Archivist. Both businesses have given me unique opportunities to develop a deeper involvement with local government leaders, non-profit organizations and of course the many accomplished women who make the Nyack business community so vital and vibrant.
